

Karlu Karlu - Devils Marbles Conservation Reserve

Fact Sheet

The Devils Marbles or Karlu Karlu is a living cultural landscape and the traditional country for the Warumungu, Kaytetye, Alyawarra and Warlpiri people.

Karlu Karlu, literally translated as 'round boulders' are a collection of gigantic rounded granite boulders, many of which are precariously balanced on top of one another. Scattered heaps of these 'marbles' occur across the wide, shallow valley that makes up the Reserve.

Karlu Karlu is recognised as of great cultural importance and became a jointly managed park in 2009. Almost the entire Reserve is a registered sacred site and many stories and traditions are associated to the area.

Geologically, the marbles were formed from an upsurge of molten rock that cooled and became solid beneath a layer of sandstone. The solidifying granite caused vertical and horizontal fractures creating rectangular blocks. Over time water infiltrated the cracks breaking down the sandstone, and then the granite. As a result, rounded granite boulders perched on top of each other have been revealed.

The heaps of granite boulders create a variety of miniature refuges and sheltered environments, where more sensitive plants like the native Rock Fig survive.

Attached to the underside of overhanging boulders, clusters of the bottle-shaped mud nests of Fairy Martins may be found. Occasionally the small Black-headed Goanna (Varanus tristis) is seen in the crevices, while the larger Sand Goanna (Varanus gouldii) is more often found among the thick clumps of Spinifex growing in the spaces between the boulders. Flocks of birds including the Zebra and Painted Finches are often found in the Reserve.

Access

This 1,802 hectare Reserve extends along both sides of the Stuart Highway approximately 393km north of Alice Springs and 100km south of Tennant Creek. The nearest settlement is Wauchope, 9km to the south, where fuel and limited supplies can be obtained.

What to do

 Camping - A simple bush camping area with fire places and pit toilets is located at the southern end of the Reserve. No water or firewood is provided and you should therefore bring your own supplies. Camp only in designated camping areas and camping fees are payable onsite.

Safety and Comfort

- Observe park safety signs.
- Carry and drink plenty of water.
- Wear a shady hat, sunscreen, insect repellent, suitable clothing and footwear.
- Avoid strenuous activity during the heat of the day.
- Consider your health and fitness when choosing a walk.

Please Remember

- Keep to designated roads and tracks.
- All historic, cultural items and wildlife are protected.
- Fires are only permitted in designated fire pits.
- Pets are permitted on a leash in the car park only.
- Generators are not permitted.
- Traditional Owners prefer that the Karlu (Marbles) are not climbed.

Walking - An easy short self guided walk (15 minute return) commences from the carpark on the western side of the road (the day-use area) with signs explaining the formation of the 'marbles'. Visitors can wander around the site along a network of informal walking tracks.

The Marbles are remnants from a solid mass of granite, the bulk of which still lies beneath them.
